There _____ (21) _____ hotels in every big city. Large hotels near the airport or downtown are often very expensive. In 2011, for example, the average price for a hotel room for one night in Moscow was ¥32,000. In Geneva, Zurich and Paris, it was more than ¥25,000. That's _____ (22) _____! Most young people can't spend so much on accommodations when they travel. It can be a challenge to travel when you don't have so much money. What should you do if you can't pay ¥25,000 for a night but you want to travel? Well, good guidebooks and the Internet can help you a lot.

A good guidebook will list many options for accommodations for every city. Usually, they list many types of accommodations: luxury hotels, tourist-class hotels, bed and breakfasts (B&Bs), and youth hostels. Good guidebooks give you important advice about location, price and safety. This can help you to compare different types of accommodations. Some may include breakfast. Some _____ (23) _____ a subway station. Some may have special features. If you buy a guidebook in advance, you can read all this information and start to make your choice. But don't stop there.

Good guidebooks also list the URL for the website for each accommodations option. Usually these websites are in _____ (24) _____ language. You can read more about the accommodations at the website. Often there are pictures so you can see the types of rooms. And often there are maps that can help you get to the place. But don't stop there. You can also search the Internet for comments and advice from other travelers who have stayed at these places. Often travelers post comments _____ (25) _____ they stay there. This information is newer than information in a guidebook. It can help you to find a good place to stay and avoid problems.

(21) a) of b) kinds c) are d) many

(22) a) money b) a c) of d) lot

(23) a) to b) close c) be d) may
